
On November 24th, 2021, Christopher Smith was shot in the head and left for dead. For 13 hours his lifeless body lay on his kitchen floor bleeding out, with only his dog, Tiki by his side. Leslie, the woman he had his first date with, was found dead, execution style, behind his Christmas tree. Both were shot by her ex-boyfriend. For 49 days Chris was in a coma and had gone through countless surgeries…but he woke up! To this day, Christopher Smith, not only walks around and describes his Near-Death-Experience on the other side, but is also able to joke, garden, and SING in a ROCK BAND! All of this has brought him to his mission…a mission to help others from his tragedy, and to spread the message of hope, faith, and healing throughout the world.

A testament to the human capacity to persevere against seemingly insurmountable odds, this is a story that will leave you amazed and motivated to never give up. As Chris would be the first one to tell you—he's no angel but it's his down-to-earth humor that makes him unique. He's been a sinner many times over, but the Lord looked down and saved him, and he knows how lucky he is. A great read."

— Paul La Rosa, author and television producer for the CBS News true crime broadcast "48 Hours".
